Correct. That has been the point of concern since the City needs to control future risk while freeing Amphenol of the same risk (as far as road and sewer go). It appears there is language that will get us there

Hi –

For clarification, Amphenol will also be restoring the sewer lines and pavement, with City oversight?
Thanks.

Carolyn - I know we've been trying to get the attorneys together for a call related to who will be performing the remediation work. As of this afternoon, that call may no longer be necessary as Amphenol is proposing to perform all the work with City engineering oversight. We will still need to work out the details but the City will not be performing the work or contracting with the service providers. Amphenol will be responsible for all that work. If there is still a need to have a call with the Attorneys at this time, please propose some days/times and I will coordinate on my end. As things become clearer, I will provide updates. Thank you.
